Calendar & Booking Flow

My Calendar:

The “My Calendar” page view presents the signed-in user, by default, a view of their current month. If the signed-in user has configured their profile settings with selected skill(s) (such as a DJ, comedian, dancer etc) then the system assumes this artist is capable of being booked. If the person has no skills selected the system will assume this person is just there to be a booker. But an artist is also capable of making bookings.

The signed-in user can view their “My Calendar” page view, it will display any “Pending Bookings” in a particular highlighted colour to represent ‘attention required’. It will display “Confirmed Bookings” in a possibly ‘Green’ highlight colour, to represent, like traffic lights, “go”. And the Calendar can also display events that the signed-in user is a “Fan” of, meaning events of artists or groups that they like to ‘follow’.

Artist or Group Calendar:

An artists calendar is a found via

Public Calendar:

The ‘Public Calendar’, probably better known as “Gig Guide”, is, by default, a current month view of the ‘system calendar’, applied by a criteria based on the signed-in user’s location, perhaps their town or state. With this criteria, the ‘System Calendar’ displays only public confirmed bookings, not private bookings.

Booking:

In order to book an artist (group or venue) on Prosessional.com, a signed-in user must find an artist (group or venue) they desire, and view their calendar by clicking on “Book” (via the artist, group or venue profile page). Once they click “Book” they are presented with a view of the artist (group or venue) calendar. The signed-in user, (at this point, is now a potential booker), who can browse the artist (group or venue) calendar for a desired date they require this performer to attend and select a time-slot and click “Book”, A window will appear with a request for details such as: Location (Where does the artist need to perform), Public or Private (Is this a private function or a public function - Private functions are hidden from public view!), and also Budget: if the artist (group or venue) has not set a default fee, hourly rate etc, via their profile settings page then the booker can suggest a fee.
